Ancient Corinth-Canal

Today the tour is full of surprises! Only a few kilometres from the modern town of Corinth, there is a village of Ancient Corinth, an area first inhabited during the Neolithic period, at the eastern foothills of Acrocorinth hill. You will be astonished by the beauty of Ancient Corinth: The excavations brought to light the imposing temple of Apollo, the Agora, the temple of Octavia, the shops of Lechaion road, Apostle Paul's Podium, the theatre and the Odeon. Ancient Corinth has a unique characteristic: local people are still occupied with agricultural activities! It is therefore a village that perfectly combines agriculture and tourism! The trip will continue to the well known Canal "Isthmos". Originally intended as a shipping route, it is today more of a landmark. Small vessels and cruise ships still use the canal. For the adventurous ones, bungee jumping is available! Try it on your free time! On your return to the hotel, you have free time to relax, swim and sunbath! The Peloponnese's sun is always smiley! Enjoy it!
